

Roundtable

Climate Action, Green Deals and Global Order

23rd of October 2019

Bucharest University of Economic Studies (ASE)

Faculty of International Business and Economics (REI)

41 Dacia Boulevard, Bucharest, Romania

GOOGLE CONFERENCE ROOM

The Roundtable will address the current context and challenges of Climate Action. According to this year's Global Risks Report by World Economic Forum, climate change is one of the biggest risks our society is facing. This is why, starting with the Paris Agreement in 2016, the environmental goals assumed by the European member states informed a dramatic change of paradigm. As environmental engagements inform a wide variety of European programmes and projects, the political commitment is paramount. In fact, the new president of the European Commission recently stated: „I want the European Green Deal to become Europe's hallmark. At the heart of it is our commitment to becoming the world's first climate-neutral Continent“.Between the European Green Deal and the American Green New Deal, the policy framework is ripe for broader change in the structure of the economies and societies of the Western world. Furthermore, after a long period of isolationist and regionalist tendencies in international affairs, with the UN Climate Action Summit in September 2019, a new momentum is gained for multilateral cooperation on the world stage.

14:00—16:00 Roundtable Discussion

- Gheorghe Hurduzeu, Dean of the Faculty of International Business and Economics (REI) (tbc)

- Andrew Taylor,
Programme Director
Executive MBA
Hull University
- Clara Volintiru, Executive Director, Institute for the Study of Extreme Events (ISEE)
- Daniel Dăianu, President of The Institute for the Study of Extreme Events (ISEE)
and Member of the Romanian Academy